Path to Economic Recovery Panel Announced

AMO is proud to announce its speaker line-up for the 2021 Path to Economic Recovery Panel for the AMO Conference.

Last year's panel discussion about economic recovery was one of the most highly rated sessions at the virtual 2020 AMO Conference.

We are recreating the panel again for 2021 to bring you the most up-to-date thinking and intelligence on how business and economic recovery will unfold in Ontario:

- The Honorable Peter Bethlanfalvy, Minister of Finance and President of the Treasury Board, will share his perspectives and insights from his front row seat in Ontario's economic policy.
- Well-known economist and writer, and Atkinson Fellow on the Future of Workers, Armine Yalnizyan, joins the panel for 2021 with important perspectives on the future of employment and economic participation.
- Diane J Brisbois, President and CEO of the Retail Council of Canada, returns to the 2021 panel with perspectives on what conditions will be required to help ensure the recovery of Ontario's retail industry and, in turn, Ontario's economy.

The panel will be moderated again this year by Steve Paikin, host of TVO's The Agenda with Steve Paikin.

Join municipal colleagues from every part of Ontario for this firsthand look at Ontario's economic future. This session is planned for the morning of August 18th.

This year features everything you have come to expect, including three ministers’ forums, speeches from the Premier, Ministers and party leaders, and delegations with Cabinet Ministers on your council’s priorities.

Don’t Forget to Request Your Delegation Meetings By June 4th.

Delegation meetings are a key feature of the AMO Conference. The AMO Conference provides an opportunity for members of your Council to meet with government ministers and officials to discuss local issues. It also provides an opportunity for delegations with other parties.
